Support for Parent Carers of Children and Young People with Disabilities and Additional Needs

Parenting a child with a disability or additional needs can often be a rollercoaster of emotions and experiences. It can be really hard to talk to others about how you feel or what you are doing as you may feel they might not be able to understand it fully.

Being a parent to a child or young person with special educational needs or disabilities can become a stressful experience when you can't find the information, advice or support you need.

As parent carers you may feel frustrated, depressed and often isolated when your child's future may not be the same as you had dreamed and you don't know where to turn.

Nottinghamshire Carers Hub is able to offer you advice and support, and signpost you to other organisations who may be able to help.

Where to go for Advice and Support

Navigating the often complex public services put in place to help your child can be confusing and stressful but there are a number of organisations that can help you with direct information, advice and support.

Autism East Midlands is the largest specialist autism charity in the east midlands providing direct advice and support services to parent carers. They host a free national helpline which is open Monday to Friday between 9.30am and 5.00pm Tel: 0808 808 3555
